

No. 15095

Executive Office,
May 16, 1935.

Senate Bill No. 529, being "AN ACT creating the County Court Law of Travis County, Texas; defining the jurisdiction of said Court; relating practice therein; prescribing the terms of said Court; providing for Clerk and Seal for said Court and prescribing the duties of Sheriff and County Attorney in relation to said Court; limiting the jurisdiction of the County Court of Travis County; and providing for the transfer of cases pending in the County Court of Travis County to said Court hereby created; and for appeals from inferior courts to said Court hereby created; and for appeals from said Court; creating an office of Judge of the County Court at Law of Travis County; providing for the appointment, election, bond and salary of the Judge of said Court and prescribing his qualifications; providing for a Special Judge; providing for the disposition of fees; and declaring an emergency", is hereby vetoed for the following reasons: For cause to the

The author of this bill requests that it be vetoed. In addition to the request of the author, I am impelled to this decision by the action of a majority of the Travis County Bar Association and the citizens who feel that such court is not needed.

Further, I am generally opposed to the creation of any new courts, and certainly when new tax burdens are imposed upon the people, there should be a clear and practically unanimous showing of the necessity.

THEREFORE, I, James V. Allred, Governor of Texas, by virtue of the authority vested in me by the Constitution and laws of this State, do hereby proclaim said bill vetoed for the reasons above set.
